

Building A Trading Business Starts Within YOU! You have been trading for some time. You make -- -and lose --- some. Perhaps, though, that may not be enough for you. You need something more from it. If you wonder why you cannot get it as high as you want it to be, do not look too far for answers. Through a series of questions and personal search of your inner mind, you will be provided with the information you need concerning your trading. The trading world is a cruel place for anyone. To manage it you must be over the top, you must stand above the crowd. The book will take you on a psychological journey of knowledge and awareness, in order to offer you the chance to make your trade business strong and powerful. Lets be honest. We all have (or had) limiting beliefs when it comes to money. Have you ever whispered or said, Money is not important, happiness is., My family is not rich so I wont be rich., I am not good with money., Rich people are evil. or Money is meant to be spent! All of these are samples of limiting beliefs about money. Have you ever pulled your hair out of frustration as you watched your trading account getting smaller and smaller? You are confused. You felt that you have followed all the rules. You have a method. You have a trading strategy. Yet you are still losing money. Whats going on here? Maybe it is not your trading strategy. It is your psychology Trading psychology is a tricky subject because it is intangible. It is not fancy. It does not have the wow factor unlike trading rumors. But without the proper trading psychology, a trader or investor will never make it in the market, as the wrong psychology block them from making money. We are trading for the money, which means our attitude towards money and our financial thermostat have to be at the right place. Otherwise, we will short-circuit ourselves when we go through the markets learning curve. What you will learn in this book might take your trading to the next level: 1) The correlation between the amount of money we will have in our life with our money habits and attitudes 2) The eight limiting beliefs about money that we all have or had. 3) How the limiting beliefs about money materialized in seven money blunders. 4) Nine ways to set our money thermostat right and prepare ourselves to be profitable traders. Trading psychology can easily be the most underrated tool in the world full of financial BS and drama. Few people pay attention to their money thermostat. Little did they know that their wrong attitude towards money is the culprit of their dwindling trading account. This book will challenge your money limiting beliefs and open your money brain.
